DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

> A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
> (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 9-11 were previously rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Manzoni et al. (6,066,249). This rejection remains in effect. Please see Response to Arguments below.

Inventorship

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Manzoni et al. (6,066,249). This rejection remains in effect. Please see Response to Arguments below.

6. Claims 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Manzoni et al. (6,066,249) in view of Lewis et al. (5,571,401). This rejection remains in effect. Please see Response to Arguments below.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 10/16/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In traversing the Examiner's previous rejections, applicant appears to be relying on two main arguments: (1) Manzoni does not teach the contacting of a sensor array to an "odorant"; and (2) There is no motivation to combine Manzoni with Lewis. The Examiner disagrees.

First, the Examiner concedes that Manzoni does not specifically recite the measuring of an odorant. The Examiner does not believe, however, that the measuring of an odor as recited in the instant claim is enough to distinguish the instant method over what is cited in Manzoni. This is because the sensor in the method does not measure "odor" – it provides a response to the other properties of the actual compound and not it's odor. As stated in the previous action, the Examiner considers the claimed method to essentially be a validation method. The method involves a comparison of two readings taken to measure the presence of a compound. This is what Manzoni also does. The Examiner has searched the specification and cannot find any distinguishing characteristics provided by the odor of the compound when it contacts the sensor array. It appears that the sensor recognizes the compounds not by their odor, but instead by their measured resistance or partition coefficients (Figures 2, 4 and 5). Therefore it appears that the definition of the compound specifically as an odorant is not relevant to whether or not the sensor is validated as working. The sensor merely needs to be able to provide a unique response for the compound being measured. As to the contention that there is no motivation to combine the validation method of Manzoni with the array of Lewis, the Examiner believes that the use of a validation method to ensure that a sensor array is in working order to be relevant in the sensor art and particularly relevant for use in industrial applications as is taught in both Manzoni and Lewis.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
